12.2. Reading

Ex. 1. Read the text.

Maria always enjoyed exploring new cuisines, and she had a particular fondness for dining out. One evening, she decided to visit a new restaurant that had recently opened in her neighborhood. The ambiance was elegant, and the menu boasted a variety of dishes from around the world. She couldn't resist ordering their signature pad Thai, a delicate blend of flavors that took her taste buds on a journey to Thailand.

As she waited for her meal, she observed the efficiency of the service. The waitstaff moved gracefully between tables, ensuring every guest was attended to promptly. This, she noted, was a stark contrast to her experiences at fast food places, where expedience often overshadowed hospitality.

When her food arrived, Maria took a moment to appreciate the meticulous presentation before diving in. Each bite was a testament to the chef's dedication to authenticity and quality. She left the restaurant feeling satisfied, already planning her next visit to explore more dishes from their diverse menu, confident that new culinary adventures awaited her.
